ABOUT THE TRAINING:

During this presentation, Drew Horowitz, MA, LADC, LPCC, CIP from Horowitz Health and Laura John, LICSW, LADC, LCSW, ICS, CSAC from Rogers Behavioral Health will provide attendees with a comprehensive understanding of working with clients in the early stages of recovery to move through the stages of change and to empower clients to stay the course. This presentation will focus on key concepts in supporting clients through the ten dimensions of substance use recovery. Participants will learn how to compassionately engage with clients, recognize ineffective behaviors, and guide clients on healthy behaviors during early recovery and beyond. Through anecdotes, best practices and experiential activities, participants will establish a base of knowledge on how to evoke change and manage highly emotional clients enduring the uncertainty of a life in successful recovery from substance use.

OBJECTIVES:

- Participants will understand the critical role of compassionate support with clients in early stages of recovery. Including an in depth look at substance use relapse and the symptoms to be aware of for intervention.
- Participants will be able to recognize debilitating behaviors and gain knowledge on approaches to guiding clients on healthy participation.
- Participants will be able to identify evidence-based intervention techniques to support positive change.
- Participants will explore the impact of behavioral health conditions on clients walking through the stages of change in substance use recovery.
- Participants will be educated on the dimensions of recovery in order to successfully guide clients through the hurdles of early recovery.
